1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 1-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by WO 98/46815, (which corresponds to US 6,430,348 to Asano et al). Asano et al discloses an optical interference functional fiber which may be formed into the claimed textiles. The fabric has the claim L value, float texture, float ratio and flattening ratio. The fabric may be formed into car and room interiors. See abstract; col. 20, lines 57-65; col. 26, lines 1-22; col. 26, lines 46-65; col. 32, lines 6-57. Asano et al teaches that the multi-filament yarns may be zero-twist yarns which would inherently meet the limitation that the number of interlaces is 20 or less per meter. See col. 26, line 67 - col. 27, line 11.

4. Applicant's arguments filed 12/30/02 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant argues that Asano differs from the claimed invention in that it does not teach features a-d set forth at page 4 of the response. However, as set forth above, Asano teaches the claimed multi-filament yarns, flattening ration, use warp and/or weft float components, and float number. With regard to the limitation that the number of interlaces is 20 or less per meter, since Asano teaches that a zero-twist yarn may be used, this would necessarily meet the limitation regarding the number of interlaces because a zero-twist yarn would have no interlaces. Applicant argues that Asano does not teach how multi-filament yarn is produced from optically interfering mon-filaments. However, Asano clearly teaches a flat optical-interference functional fiber formed by alternately laminating individually independent layers of polymers. Asano teaches that zero-twist multi-filament yarns comprising these functional fibers may be formed. Therefore, Asano anticipates the claimed invention.

5. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
